Profit From Mexico's Solar Rise

Throughout the country, solar irradiation is optimal for a wide range of solar technologies. With an annual average of 5. kWh/m² per day, Mexico is a market with a high potential for different types of photovoltaic and solar thermal applications. Both industries have developed and diversified in the last decades. Leaders and decision-makers acknowledge the relevance of solar energy in the decarbonization of the residential, commercial and industrial sectors. The solar share in the Mexican energy mix is growing!

Intersolar Mexico sits at the cross-section of photovoltaics, solar heating and cooling technologies, and energy storage. The event serves as the industry's go-to source for invaluable technology trends and premier B2B contacts in the promising Mexican solar market. The third edition will take place September 6-8, 2022 together with the co-located The GREEN Expo® and Aquatech Mexico at Centro Citibanamex in Mexico City.
